Cine Sin Fronteras (CSF) is a cooperation action between Europe and Latin-America, led by Europa Distribution, the FICCO, the ARCALT, and the CICAIE. It is intended for professionals of promotion and exhibition and aims at encouraging the circulation of movies between these continents and strengthening cooperation between their respective audiovisual industries.

During the two workshops of the 1st CSF edition (in Mexico City in February and in Toulouse in March), these objectives were met through the signature of the Tlatelolco agreement, aiming at supporting diffusion. It was followed by the creation of the FELCINE, Latin-American Federation of Independent Exhibitors and Distributors, network of professionals from 8 countries, which objectives are to implement the Tlatelolco agreement and to promote collectively European and Latin-american art cinema on both continents.
